The Texas Pecos Trail Region is 22 counties, 35,000 square miles, thousands of miles of infamous rivers, seven state parks, and hundreds of historical, cultural, and environmental heritage tourism destinations in vast and beautiful southwest-central Texas. Named for a highway trail system created by the Texas Department of Transportation, our mission is to preserve, protect, and promote the historic, the cultural, and the natural heritage of Texas.

Our website offers you the essential tools for creating a memorable journey through our Region—attractions, maps, city and county information sites, and a calendar of year-round events. For the preservationists and the tourism professional, we have pages of heritage tourism, historic preservation and economic development resources, services, events and programs. Explore Southwest Texas Heritage—
the history, culture, and nature.

Since pioneer days, the immense blue sky, open and rugged terrain, and the Pecos, Devil's and Rio Grande rivers have drawn the adventurous to the southwest area of Texas. Today, it is where the natural beauty and western heritage encourages a variety of memorable outdoor and indoor adventures ...

... fascination of oil, flight, presidential and ranching museums; the discovery of ancient pictographs and the people that painted them; or is it the draw of frontier forts, cattle drives and historic town squares—that stirs the imagination. Experience the activities, stories and memories of the legendary oil towns, now rich with exciting galleries and entertainment. Or tour the living history districts, working ranches, Main Streets, restored courthouses and century-old jails showcasing the law and the outlaws that made the wild west.

The Pecos Trail Region gives you rodeos, country swing and ballet folklorico; historic wineries and the border's best fiesta's. For nature lovers it offers eclectic state parks and nature preserves with giant sandhills, spring-fed swimming pools, bat caves, bass fishing and year-round birding.
